

Performance Commentary

The encouraging operational trends observed in previous quarters continued; we are pleased with the progress of corporate transformation across the portfolio. The fund exited its holding in CBRE after a solid share price development since inception. The proceeds have largely been recycled into our newest holding in the real estate sector, Hudson's Bay, which offers a stronger risk-reward profile at this stage.

On balance, the fund's performance during February was negative. It is however important to recognise that the recent market stress has also increased the sense of urgency at our portfolio companies. This reinvigorated opportunity for activists to catalyse positive change should bode well for medium-term performance.

Conduent and Ericsson were the fund's largest positive contributors in February. The former performed strongly on the back of its Q4 results release, which helped put this exciting story on the map for mainstream investors. ThyssenKrupp and Hertz were the fund's largest detractors. Both companies have however performed in-line with our expectations from an operational perspective, which is why we have taken advantage of the share price weakness and increased our exposure to these situations. Insight's modus operandi is to increase exposure to situations when the risk-reward profile improves.

SKAGEN Insight invests in a diversified and actively managed portfolio of companies exposed to some of the most attractive activist campaigns globally. Activists seek to unlock value by urging companies to make improvements. SKAGEN Insight "shadows" activists by investing in these companies. The objective is to provide the best possible risk adjusted return. The fund is suitable for those with at least a five year investment horizon.
